Preface

For as long as I can remember, I've believed in God and his triune existence. One major lesson learned from my trials and tribulations in the foster care system is that everyone needs someone or something to believe, no matter what, nor the size. Hope goes a long way in life, especially during uncertain times. And hope placed correctly empowers man to move mountains. For me, I found my hope in Jesus Christ. But it didn't happen overnight. It took time - a considerable amount of time. Heck, I wasn't even sure that what I first found was actually hope. As I sat and listened to my foster mother's favorite channel (Trinity Broadcasting Network, TBN) on the edge of her 60 year-old Thompson bed, I couldn't understand why and how this pastor was able to ignite what seemed to be the reverent fear of God in so many people, with just a single touch on the forehead. It hadn't yet dawned on me, that this touch somehow, supposedly possessed a power from God through his Holy Spirit (now, as a biomechanist and realist, I know it simply to be a matter of inertia and good acting). All this, at the precious age of 13, when every emotion in me literally changed with the wind.

It would take me 10 more years to see and experience firsthand the graceful and merciful power and work of the Holy Spirit in my life. While in college, the writings of C.S. Lewis, Saint Augustine, and George MacDonald made me a believer in the power of God and his Holy Spirit. Nevertheless, my time in school also left me questioning the power of the Holy Spirit. What a divided man I was! Today, as I sit in this coffee shop and write this book, I now understand his power better than I did before. I would never, ever sell the work of this book as a revelation directly from God. But I can say, with all honesty, is that these words were certainly inspired by the Holy Spirit (as are all things that are for the good of the Lord). As I reflect on these words as they were given to me, I remember my first thought being, "Why me? Why give me such powerful revelations? Why? Up to this time, why would you lead me into thinking that simply because I tried to treat people fairly, and because I tried to treat my wife well, and I because I try to take care of my other responsibilities, I might be in a good, God-fearing position?" All those perceptions changed as I watched the words flow from my heart to the page. I began to understand that just because things I did appeared to be 'right and moral', my definition of right and moral, and God's definition of right and moral are completely different. Suffice it to say that writing this book certainly humbled me! In the summer of 2015, over the course of 2 weeks, I was given a series of what appeared to resemble letters. At first, I thought them to simply be alternative ways of thinking about common areas of life. Then, they became stronger, and the messages occurred more often. As I reflected on these letters, I began to see how these "alternative ways of thinking" weren't simply alternative ways. They were mirrors into my own behaviors - windows into my tainted soul! I began to realize that the Holy Spirit was showing me that all the things I thought I had under control were really the things I struggled with the most. I also began to see that right behavior had more to do with love for God and not simply engaging in right behaviors. As you might imagine, I began to fall into depression, as the work of the Holy Spirit is no light matter. Marriage, fatherhood, professorship, church, friendships, and all other major areas in my life were brought into question. It felt as if He was scrutinizing my behaviors and thoughts with a double-edged sword. But what was perhaps more alarming is that when I tried to identify where this information was coming from, I would simply hear a voice say,

"You Know Who This Is."

If you are reading this book, and do not know Our Father in Heaven, I hope you are inspired to simply ask more questions. I hope you see a glimpse of the Glory that awaits you. If you already know and believe in Him, I hope these letters encourage you, and deepen your relationship with our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

Regarding Marks (Please advise: Read this letter first)

Son,

The human soul changes daily. The nature of that change depends on you. Much like a tree planted by rivers of water, your soul, with proper nourishment, is edified by the addition of what you can understand as marks. Marks can be beneficial or detrimental to the soul. When you aim at heaven, you add marks to your soul. Marks of truth, love, honor, good health, wisdom, and knowledge, to name a few. When you miss the mark, the soul is beset by marks of death, disruption, confusion, insecurity, hatred, anger, and the like. Until you know yourself fully (which cannot happen in this lifetime), you will occasionally miss the mark. Fortunately for you, I provide grace and mercy. To receive a continuous, refreshing supply of grace and mercy every morning, you must believe in me. My Begotten Son made this possible for you. Nourish your soul. Aim at heaven. Don't miss the mark.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is..

Regarding Patience

Son,

You've never developed patience. If you understood time as well as I require, you would understand patience. Patience fortifies all endeavors. Patience allows marks to be expressed in a way that is correct, instead of a way that seems rushed and hurried. A misplaced mark is nothing but patience not being able to complete her perfect work. You (and other spirits) realize this the most when you want to do the good that is within the mark, but are unable to. Well, that's because patience must finish her imperfect work. Ah, but when patience has completed her work, you will benefit all those to which your new mark has been expressed and exposed. This is your goal. To become one with My mark. All things lead to this.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is..

Regarding Focus

Son,

I created your world in a week's worth of what you consider time. My triune existence focused on this task. It is essential you understand that your life's purpose requires a diligence, prudence, patience, reserve, understanding, vision, and love. This is formally known as a Peculiar Glory. The compilation of these 'marks' on your soul, working together for the good of you is what you and your fellow spirits know as focus. Focus, by your standard denotes relentless concentration on a specific task. Tasks are your attempt at understanding and achieving accomplishment. In this manner, you and your fellow spirits propel focus towards tangible matters with tangible outcomes. Don't you know that your life's purpose is not tangible? Don't you know your eternal gifts are not tangible? So why would your focus be on tangible things? I've given you as many resources as you'll ever need. Granted, your resources on the earth are certainly tangible (I know, because I created them just for that purpose). Focus, then, is the commitment of your marks towards the direct use of your gift, in order that the true good may be shown forth to your fellow spirits. Remember, everything is for the good of fellow spirits.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is.

Regarding Pain

Son,

Shallow of you and your fellow spirits to regard pain as something which originates outside of you. These are prideful moments in which you and your fellow spirits use pain as a means for the celebration of overcoming, achieving what you define as impossible, and relating to each other. Crutches! The only true, selfless pain that I've seen someone suffer in an act of love and selflessness, is the pain of sin and death on my Son, inflicted and caused by the many evil works of others with disgraceful marks. You know who He is. What you consider pain, I consider weakness. What you consider suffering, I consider strengthening. What you consider turmoil, I consider endurance. What you currently consider endurance, I consider a circus act of what you know as mitochondrial inefficiency. I've seen many spirits cry and lose faith amid losing a loved one. Was he yours to begin with? Did I cry at the death of my son?

Signed,

You Know Who This Is.

Regarding Vocation.

Son,

At this point in time, you are merely working to provide meat. Though this does have its benefits, I want you to refrain from working and begin your vocation. Your true, natural calling. As I have stated many, many times, these affairs of life were originally made to fix your eyes upon your Father. The many duties and jobs among you and your fellow spirits are designed such that you assist each other in the ministry. You are called out to be different. This is why your work is more than a mere compilation of tasks and checklists for steady income and worry-free living. You are called to perform duties for a bigger body, The Body. Before the creation, I specifically planted each of you in specific locations, with specific tasks based on specific gifts. These gifts are needed and serve the purpose of showing those around you, the light of the Gospel of Good News. Therefore, if you merely focus on your work and not your vocation, you minimize the gifts with which you were blessed, and maximize your anxieties concerning productivity, efficiency, deadlines, management, and other frivolous cares. You become concerned, beset, and perplexed by careers, promotions, salaries, demotions, and the like. It is true these things ultimately serve a great purposes, but they are but an ends to a mean. And that mean leads to Me. Work without vocation is a traveler without cause. He wonders about, spending most of his time, and energy toward a purposeless goal - a goal which moves him closer to the world, and further away from his Creator. Don't travel without cause.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is.

Regarding the Heart

Son,

The heart above all things is a very deceitful thing. The only being that fully understands it is Me. You think you understand what it means to perfectly love, to hate, to despise, and to motivate in an unbiased, unblemished way? You only have mere glimpses of these things. This is why you must, with great meticulousness, be mindful of what you allow in it, around it, and through it. This is also why you must be careful to approach all affairs of life with pure motives. If you fail to do this, life will be a cloud of misery - a cloud which has no clarity, and no chance of proper vision.

Remember, out of its abundance, the heart speaks. And you can't stop its overflow. You simply control what's poured into it. Therefore, my son, choose wisely. Your soul and its marks depend on it.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is.

Regarding Productivity

Son,

You are becoming a scholar of knowledge. Do not get caught up in the worldly idea of productivity. The only productivity is that of reaching the heights of spiritual felicity. There are indeed responsibilities that require you to think and act clearly on your duties as a human man, a father, a professor, a friend, a mentor, a family man, and the like. Remember, the ultimate purpose is that of becoming one with your savior, your God.

Therefore, using the system denoted by your fellow man is of but minimal use. Though it may profit you some, it is not the answer . It never will be, because everyone is imperfect in their depictions of the way that seems right. The Word - this is the only perfection. In it flows the only life. I have placed Mother Nature here to guide you, in both wrongdoing and right doing, in prosperity and in times of need. She can never be persuaded, and therefore never changes. She can never cause an error. She only knows my truth, and you should align yourself with her. If you want to prosper in this world, align yourself with her. I gave you dominion over her, but she listens to me. True productivity, in any affair in life, is seeking me, following my direction, and providing it to the world and my people. To do this is to be one with nature.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is.

Regarding Stress

Son,

How prideful of you to emphasize the tool of stress as something which diminishes your capacity? Why would you not see it for what it really is?

What you call stress is simply a misfire between dormant, fruitful marks on your spirit, and your ability to express these marks. You wouldn't eat or drink something that it misaligns your body and mind, right (Oh, but you have done this many times)? You wouldn't mismanage your resources from the earth, would you - your oils, your coin, your water?

Spiritual marks always requires rest, and this is fine (I designed them to find rest and peace in me). But no mark ever requires laziness.

Likewise, no mark ever requires what you and your fellow spirits have identified as glucose, in large unhealthy proportions in relation to other nutrients.

Marks require resourcefulness. This stress you often feel, is but a misfire between your spiritual marks and your ability to display those marks.

Your fellow spirits often mismanage marks. This is common, and they may bombard you with this during your Sunday gatherings and during your mid-week gatherings. After all, your fates are linked. Concerning fellow spirits, this is where discretion and prudence regarding the conversation of stress must be expressed with the utmost care. Failure to do so leads to improper expression of another soul's mark. You know how I feel about improperly steering a fellow spirit astray.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is.

Regarding Time

Son,

Your spirit lives in the flesh of time. As such, time should be treated as the Chief of all resources in your lifespan. Nothing, with the exception of your spirit, can live and exist outside of time. Time is mother nature's chief tool, and you must use it to you and your fellow spirit's advantage. Since time is restricted to earth and its inhabitants, Your flesh combats everything the spirit does. Some are aware of this, and continually struggle, and some see a false image of themselves and thus are completely unaware of the ongoing fight. Do not 'use' time by concerning yourself with trivial, unfruitful matters. Instead, align yourself with time's rules. For instance: time never goes backward. Time never discriminates. And time always moves forward, without bias, from the past.

Keep time by your side. Always be aware that you do not 'have' time.

For time is not your own. Your life is within the confines of time.

Therefore, time owns you. So be thankful for time. Do not abuse time, or Mother Nature will allow time to abuse you.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is.

Regarding the Diminishing of Others

Son,

You must be careful not to diminish my glory in the presence of others.

Through the eons of time, my followers are always instructed not to interfere with the salvation of others. Your fellow human spirits lead you to believe that by wronging another spirit, I simply mean saying something hurtful to someone, taking their cookies, or whispering trite interjections about their name. While each of these irrational behaviors can lead to your soul awaking in hell one day, they are not the chief of my concerns. The chief concern is your spirits misrepresenting Me in such a way that it leads other souls away from my glory. This is quite dangerous. When you mislead a soul, you not only interfere with their spiritual growth. You also interfere with all the myriads of souls who benefit from the intercourse of the two of you. Therefore, to interfere with one soul is to interfere with many souls. Put another way, I instructed my son to send the demons away to die in the waters of the Euphrates. During this event, you may recall they way the demonic spirits answered my Son when they were asked their name. "We are legion." They were 'many'.

Good or bad - spirits never work alone. Why should you be any different?

Signed,

You Know Who This Is.

Regarding the Pulse of Your Life

Son,

The human pulse is one of my most cherished creations. I love it much, because it allows you and your fellow spirits to, at any time, take notice on certain truisms about your physiological condition and emotional desires. Though you are somewhat familiar with this duality in the nature of your work, let us review several interesting facts about the physiological pulse which keeps you alive:

1. You can identify your pulse at many locations on your body.
2. There is nothing, absolutely nothing, that you can do or think, that will not affect your pulse.
3. Though simple to palpate and monitor, it provides a wealth of information about everything happening with your physiological self.
4. If your pulse is weak, it means that you are having a supply issue.
5. If your pulse is strong, the demand for nourishment is met, or is in the process of being met.
6. If your pulse cannot be located, your natural life is compromised, and may cease to exist at any moment.

So it is with your spiritual life, and the life around you. Look at the headlines of your news feed. Identify the popular conversations at work. What's the 'talk of the town' lately? What has your wife been focusing on lately? Think about these things. Are they weak? Are they strong? Can you even sense them at all? This is your world pulse. What about you? How can you tell whether you are in good or bad standing with me? How do you know that what you are doing is where I want you to be? How do you know that you are in fact - my adopted child? These are your pulses. As I have said through my sons and your forefathers, everything in the natural world speaks to my existence, including your pulse. But always remember this: your natural pulse serves your spiritual pulse. But how can one know the nature of his pulse, if he does not know the One who sustains its rhythm and very existence? How did I know Job would not curse me? I knew his pulse. But he also knew how to identify his pulse. Neither of these things, did my fallen son know. Can you locate your pulse?

Signed,

You Know Who This Is.

Regarding Insecurity

Son,

Again, this is a matter of pride. Your insecurity is merely pride, combined with your inability to face truth. Remember, truth is never changed, never false, and always directs itself towards the light. Though you and your fellow spirits originate from I, the truth, your truth will be quite different from your fellow spirit's truth. This is an important matter for you to learn. When you understand this, you understand this lack you know as insecurity. As your pride is a diminished form of goodness, it naturally stands in defense during times of insecurity. However, your human emotion is what exacerbates the effects of your insecurities. Watch for this, as I have seen many a spirit fall at the behest of insecurity. Know the truth and you overcome this insecurity.

You Know Who This Is.

Regarding Fortune

Son,

What makes a man rich? Is it indeed the riches that he accumulates with a sound mind back by a sound plan? Or, it is it the wealth he accumulates with a pure heart and a right spirit? Many a spirit succumb to the pressures of the love of money and its engulfing nature.

Remember this my son: I created money so that it forces you to think about what you value the most, and what you intend to do with what you value. If you value me, you shall indicate that in your methods of money management. If you do not cherish and value me, you also indicate that with your money management. Remember this, and you shall truly be rich.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is..

Regarding Identity

Your personal identity is not important. If you know me, and are one with me, you need no identity. By the way: your earthly adoption was a blessing.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is..

Regarding Freedom

Son,

For a long, long time, you were under the perception that you were free, and your grounds for freedom were grounded in ideas and opinions of the western world. Needless to say, this is a major misinterpretation on your behalf. The cornerstone of freedom is not simply and independently being able to think, move, and act in the manner you decide. That definition of freedom would place you in the hands of the evil one. Freedom, my son, is the ability to relinquish your grip on your world, in light of your greater treasure, My only begotten Son. This view is twofold: In one sense, you let go of what you inherently consider critical for natural survival. In the other sense, you cling to that which is good, simply because you cherish it more than you cherish your former gripping. When this is done, freedom is realized and achieved. Until this is done, you are a slave to destruction.

You were not born into the world as a free spirit. You were born into the world loving to hate and chained to sin Loving to lust and loving to lie were ingredients to your most secretive pleasures. In other words, who are inherently are is shaped in inequity. Ah! But once you catch a glimpse of the Light, by faith, it draws you in. Then, you're forever changed. In that glimpse, you are forever changed. You are forever free. Don't shorthand yourself with frivolous definitions of freedom.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is..

Regarding Willpower

Son,

What you understand as willpower is not a power at all. It is simply an imperfect strength placed inside of you, in order that you might realize your limits and weakness as a human being. Your lack of willpower is designed to force you to look up at Me. You, as well as many of your fellow spirits, tend to develop many tactics, read many books, train the body, so that you might increase your willpower for other activities.

While you can certainly increase willpower, it will never be enough to bring happiness. It is I who even quickens you to have willpower and provide the increase (I will refer you to Paul and Apollo's planting and watering tactics in the church).

The will can be a very tricky thing.

It can cause men to grow and mature in the twinkling of an eye.

It can cause men to decay and die in the twinkling of an eye.

It can cause men to reach natural heights and depths that are unfathomable by many, and comprehensible by few.

It can cause mothers to make the ultimate sacrifice for their newborns.

It can cause fathers to pay the ultimate cost for their past sins.

It causes brothers to overcome brothers, sisters to overcome sisters.

It can cause the burdened and heavy-laden to grab hold of freedom at any cost.

After a man has travelled a million miles, and climbed a thousand hills, willpower can cause him to look up to the sky for his creator. But even after much toil and stress, it is I, and only I, that can open his eyes.

Give in.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is..

Regarding Shame

Son,

Is not shame an image of you? Is it not a image of your faults, your lacks, and your misdeeds? Is not serving an image other than me, considered a sin of the highest mark? Then, my son, why serve another image? You say, "But I don't understand how my shame equals serving another image." I will tell you how.

You, as well as your fellow spirits, fear shame. You fear being in the eye of earthly beholder, your fellow spirits, because you think their evaluation of you is of the highest importance. While it is somewhat significant to do well in the eyes of others, why aim at earthly endeavors, and miss out on heaven, when you can aim at heaven, and get both (to quote myself speaking through another of your fellow spirits)? Loving me loves and please others as well (though, not all can be pleased). When you experience shame, it is because you know that something has occurred in your life which will degrade (even for a moment) you name, your place in society, or even your integrity. You indeed think these things, because you lack one of my most significant marks - faith. It is not your job to see into the future. It is not your job to understand what the perception of all people will be of you when you fall. Your job, rather, is to stand back, and allow me to show through you, and use my display as substance and evidence that everything will be just fine.

Stand tall - not because of you - but because of the one who sent you.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is..

Regarding Habits

Son,

It is simple of you to regard the continuation and repetition of life's choices as mere habits. Habits are but echoes of a soul which you haven't fully comprehended. What you desire are marks on the soul. A mark on your soul can never be withdrawn, no matter how much or how little you do on your end to make it better. Withstanding, these marks, similar to marks which Knights received on experienced swords, can be marks of greatness, or marks of destruction. Habits are but a reflection of these marks. your attempts to control and direct these mere habits can lead to some fruit, but will never lead to permanent felicity. For this, a mark of truth is required. The soul is such a delicate thing, a must be handled with care. Develop your marks wisely, and what you consider good habits, will follow.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is.

Regarding Light

Son,

Light is not something to be taken lightly. There are many metaphors in your earth, in your world, which speak to the compelling truths of light. These compelling truths are here so that you might see and learn the lessons nature offers you. Unfortunately, most spirits neglect to see these truths about light, because they are busy negotiating darkness for darkness. But you've caught a glimpse of this light. Even with your studying, meditating, prayer, and supplication, it is still difficult for you to keep your foot from darkness.

Do you know why?

You, without me, are - and reside in - darkness. You were born and shaped in darkness. You love darkness, so much so that your forefathers exchanged light for it. Though you may not be aware of your level of commitment to the darkness, trust me, it's there, and it's greater than you can ever imagine. And this is why I show you the light. At first, your love for darkness makes it hard for you to understand the light. But as you continue to fix your eyes upon the light, the light becomes greater, not because it grows (I'm already as great as great can be), but because you begin to see it and cherish it more than you cherish darkness. Then, you begin to understand the light, and darkness continues to give way to the light.

Look around - look at your sun orbiting your earth. The sun makes everything grow at its core. It makes flowers bloom. It generates chemical reactions on your skin! It keeps all of nature warm. Whenever anything comes in contact with the sun, it is forever changed. So it is with me and the light I have shown to you.

Be forever changed.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is..

Regarding Motive

Son,

The heart, above all things is a very deceitful thing. The only being that understands it is me. You think you understand what it means to love? To hate? To despise? To motivate? You only have mere glimpses of these things.

This is why you must, with the utmost meticulousness, be mindful of what you allow in your heart, around heart, and through your heart.

This is also why you must be careful to approach all affairs of life with pure motives. If you fail to do this, life will become a cloud of misery - a cloud which has no clarity, and no chance of proper vision.

Remember, out of its abundance, it speaks. And you can't stop its overflow. You simply control what's poured into it. Therefore, my son, choose wisely. Your soul and its marks depend on it.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is..

Regarding Wisdom

Son,

There was a time in your life where you chased after knowledge more than anything else. You chased after mother Wisdom, and you chased after many other virtues. As you transitioned through many levels of human understanding, you failed to grasp the everlasting understanding required to sustain a truly fruitful life. This understanding I speak of, is generated by the power of the spiritual marks I leave upon your soul. The understanding which you have familiarized yourself with thus far, is understanding found under the sun. However, this understanding is limited, because it is not understanding backed by my spirit (see Queoeth in his book of Ecclesiastes for more details). It is possible for man to fathom many things, to solve many problem, and to ultimately find a way that appears right to man - only to find his way always comes up short. As you begin to seek true wisdom, always remember this: Wisdom, just as many other facets of your life, is a means to the Omega.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is..

Regarding Possibility

Son,

Silly (and perhaps prideful) of you to think that your fellow spirits understand, on a cosmic level, the possibility of possibility better than I. I am the one who created yesterday, sustains today, and develops your 'tomorrow'. I stood where all were, I stand where all are, and I am standing where no one has ever been. I am at the end of the decision you've yet to hear or make. Therefore, if anyone knows possibility, it is I. You have allowed your fellow spirits to cling tightly to the possibilities that can be attained with various resources. Again - very human and earthly of you. I cannot blame them. I can only blame you for your actions and perceptions. Perhaps if you turn your focus towards me, you'll see true possibility - not some mere attainment of earthly resources. Actually, those are the simplest things had by you and your fellow spirits. Once you are gone - then what?

Your immature perception of possibility - curing the world of hunger, solving what you call 'life's greatest mysteries', curing disease, and the like, are not your responsibilities. If I deem it be solved, I will let you know. For now, all of your possibility lies in the immediate decision of now. Now is all there is, all there was, and all that will ever be for you. You may keep a glimpse of where I stand in the future, or where I stood in the past. But your form is a form made for Now. Loose sight of that, and you loose sight of true possibility. Pay little or no attention to your fellow spirits and their inaccurate depictions of possibility. They are merely sleepwalking and envisioning themselves in lucidity and know not what they truly do. You are also guilty of this at times, so remain humble. As I stated before, humility gives way to truth, and truth sets you free.

That, my son, is true possibility.

Signed,

You Know Who This Is..

Regarding Growth

Son,

It's time for you to lay aside the weight. You've been carrying it for so, so long. No, I'm not talking about the things that burden you. You make those, out of your sheer human imperfections. The weights to which I'm referring are those that came as a child. So many of your fellow spirits carry this weight and are beset by it.

As a child, you gave in to your deepest emotions. You did as your carnal mind commanded you to do. You acted without Me, without guidance, and without any shame and empathy for others.

It is common, that is, for spirits to succumb to the carnality of their minds. This is perhaps the largest barrier from childhood to spirit hood.

Son, growing from child to man doesn't only require that you lay aside every weight and the sin which besets you (I shall refer you to my Apostle Paul in his letter to the Hebrews for more information). It also requires that you take on a new mark to the soul. This mark, however, is one of the toughest marks for me to bequeath to the soul. It requires doing everything, outside of the carnal nature. It requires a deeper, more realistic understanding of many of the concepts which you originally misunderstand, namely time, energy, food, faith, trust, and love being among the chief of them. As a carnal child, you had no care, no anxiety, nor any concept of these things which the mark expresses. They are simply out of your understanding. But as a man, you begin to understand these things through the lens of what you spirits call adulthood. The problem herein is that adulthood, in most cases, overwhelms spirit hood. All that adulthood seemingly has to offer is much more carnally pleasant than spirit-hood. I shall refer you to the example of a knight and a peasant. A knight has the utmost respect among his peers, lives in the highest places, but protects the lives of man, men, and kings, and therefore is in great danger at all times. The peasant, however, is in no great danger, does not live in high places, and has no outstanding responsibility to any other than family and his work. Ah, I see you're still thinking carnal. Do not think carnal about the differences in resources between the knights and the peasants. Simply think about the responsibilities. This is what those with higher callings are called for, and this is why one's spirit must mature past childhood.

You may recall that my begotten Son (from the mouth of my Apostle Paul) reflected on faith hope and love to the church of Corinth. As a child, he did, spake, and acted as such. But when he became a man, he had to put those things away in order that he might sacrifice for you. Can you imagine your world without the growth of my only begotten Son?

Regarding Truth

Son,

Truth is the only path to freedom. Truth never needs explanation; it stands on its own and is the most significant mark. Whatsoever is true, can indeed be made false. Truth, however, is never made false. There are many spirits who diminish the truth. Stay away from these diminished thoughts and exacerbations of life. This is what took you away from Me in the beginning, and this is what can do the most damage to you at the end of life. Do not worry, as you will certainly know the truth when you hear, see, feel, touch, or taste it. This is the chief reason for the senses I have provided in your earthly form. This is why expression of truth is powerful and life-giving. This is also why it sets you free.

Do not abandon truth.

Son, do not abandon truth.

Regarding the Things to so Easily Beset You

Son,

The effects of sin on the soul are far from trite. Yes, it is true that you are part human. But it is also true that you are primarily spirit. In that sense, I desire more of you. You struggle so passionately against carnal desires, lusts, and temptations. These sins are but outbursts from a mark which still dominates your soul. You must, at all costs, fight. But this fight against sin is unlike any other fight. This fight requires spiritual strength, not mere human strength. This fight requires a particular, unworldly grace, not a fine compilation of human passions. This fight requires the nature of patience, not a controlled strategy developed from study. Many spirits struggle in their brief lifespans against this mark, not knowing the fight they put up gets them nowhere. I have warned all, through your brother Paul, that you fight not against flesh and blood, but against principalities of this world, which originate from the world below. Therefore, you fight spirit with spirit. By spirit, I don't simply mean that you fight with some good intentions conjured up through meditation. Spirit is something interwoven through Me.

Therefore, you must know me to know your enemy's weaknesses.

And rest assured, sin is your enemy, and I cannot - I will not - allow sin in my camp.

Regarding Technology

Son,

All things serve you with one purpose: To return to the garden from which you came. All things serve this one purpose. In this purpose lies choice, and in choice lies the power of life and death. This so-called technological age in which you think you live is quite amusing. There's nothing new under my son. You simply found a different, simplified, more efficient use for resources which were here from the beginning.

This, I expect from you. The need and desire for thriving and success has overtaken many of your fellow souls, and their ability to engage in propaganda has thrived at an unprecedented level. Your technology is great only because I am great. Your businesses thrive, only because I allow them to thrive. Your advances only move forward, because I see the greater picture - the greater end. I am already where you have not yet been.

You must be careful not to allow these seemingly new advancements in your generation to thwart your plans with me. You must not allow yourself to be consumed and beset from all sides, with the worries and cares of novelty, inventions, and design. Your fellow spirits have but an inkling into the true meaning of creativity. They are correct in their thinking that creativity is birthed from a gift. But, as with all good things, they come from me, and can only be truly fulfilled by me.

Therefore, if I do not exist in their conscious and unconsciousness, creativity has yet to be seen or fulfilled. What your fellow spirits see in what they think to be creativity, are weak expressions of their marks.

Marks which they don't even understand, and can only be understood with me. Again, these are good, and sometimes, with man's unraveling, are not so good.

Do you not recall what my only begotten Son asked of me while he hung from that tree?

Regarding Nature

Son,

I am pleased with your beginnings with attempting to understand Mother Nature. So simple are her ways, yet so complex is her wisdom to those who are blind to her and fail to listen to her cries. Her truth is this: she controls everyone and everything, regardless of your knowledge of her. It is in your best interest that you align yourself with her so that your life becomes not your life, but instead, a spirit interwoven with your My spirit. What other life can smaller spirits have but this? Mother Nature is such a beautiful caretaker. Though she doesn't give you the breath of life you inhale at every conscious and unconscious moment, she nurtures that breath with the smallest of her children - the honeybee. Though she doesn't give you the sun, She consoles the sun and keeps it at such a distance, that it nurtures your skin without causing immediate physical death (though you and fellow spirits continue to increase the negative effects of the sun on your earth). Mother nature rewards those who are diligent in their works and accepts her wisdom. She is a punisher to those who abuse her words, and denies her wisdom. Though your fellow spirits need not know me to partake in mother nature's benefits, their attempts will only go so far in this life. You see, there is a hidden manna to mother nature that only those spirits who are one with me can partake in. This hidden manna is contained in my rest, which was established immediately following my creation, and mother nature's curation of earth. This, My son, you and your fellow spirits must yearn and desire to understand. At this point, you have all misunderstood, at great lengths, the meaning of accomplishment. Some point in your timeline, accomplishment took on the meaning of material wealth, success and prosperity messages, and being among kings. Those things are but basic resources. They are not true treasures. Mother nature has that treasure - the ultimate treasure - locked away for those who seek her Creator - the one who gives her power. Until you and your fellow spirits seek her correctly, and allow Me into those things which I gave you dominion over, You will not be able to store any of these treasures, and I will forever be lost to you. After all, I gave you dominion over the earth. And you must make the conscious choice to invite me in.

Regarding Personality

Son,

Why does the expression of what you call 'personality' matter to you?

Do you not know that personality is simply the expression of your life's gift from me, and the mark of your true identity? Identity is separate from personality, because identity is something you have, which is lost within me. That's a good thing. Personality, on the other hand, is what you have free will to express as a result of that identity, and when you use that free will to express it through the conduit of my gift to you and your identity in me, you have no choice but to have a pure personality.

A pure personality is interwoven into a godlike identity and a good gift from me. You lost your way when you were more concerned with what you and your fellow spirits know as creativity, personality type, and the like. These are but attempts to express the gifts I have for you. Believe it or not, if you do not seek and find me, you never get your gift. What you commonly express is through the natural powers and dominion I gave you some 6000+ years ago.

Therefore, don't try to find your gift. Find me. Lose the personality and your concern for it. Then you will find your gift, and with it, comes a beautiful personality. What is it, that one of my children previously said to you: aim at heaven, get earth thrown in. Aim at earth, get neither?

Signed,

You Know Who This Is..

Regarding Heaven

Son,

Yes . Heaven is real. You'll never touch any part of it without truth, focus, and humility. Your main purpose is not to find my kingdom in heaven. I've already told you where that is. Your purpose is allow me to realign your heart with my Son's heart. Essentially, you are to simply realign yourself with me. Become one with me. When you become one with me, you become one with your fellow spirits, your spouse being the chief among them. All affairs, trials, turmoil, sufferings, imperfections, afflictions, burdens, etc., are but attempts to get you to realize this and place you back in touch with the true mark. You are selfish to think that your ultimate goal is to get to heaven. That is simply self-spirit preservation. Your higher calling is towards the mark. I am The Mark. If you recall, I sent Paul to tell you that. Heaven is beautiful. But remember I created it. I created you. So why would you strive for a part of my creation instead of the one who built it?

Regarding Peace

Son,

The only true rest which exists, exists within me. This is true peace. Many spirits attempt to enter into this peace, which only I can give, but to no avail. You are among these spirits that attempt to experience this by using some subconscious physical position by making a mockery of meditation, deep breathing, and relaxation. Have you know that those are instruments, accessible through your human form, that allow you to enter into my peace as a human? Many of your fellow spirits have kept themselves extremely anxious and so busy with matters and affairs of the world, that they seek this peace, never find it, and settle for a brief, subconscious remediation instead. To equate this meditative, human experience to the perfection of peace is borderline abomination.

There are very few warrior spirits who fight the good fight of faith, and have my peace. This peace, as I said before, can only be had by those who establish themselves in truth. Your understanding, son, has grown, but you are still feeble in some of your ways. This why you still struggle with peace. As spirits roam the earth, their marks communicate with each other. As a matter of fact, this is the only way in which you truly communicate in life. Those who have established themselves in truth have a mark unlike any other mark on the soul, and they are the only spirits who can see the sure evils within other human spirits. Other spirits, blind spirits, simply see the external outcry from disorganized, confused spirits. But they are blind to the origin of the problem. With carnal eyes you see war, terror, hate, injustice (this one particularly angers me), and other confusions. The truth-marked spirits see pestilence, death, war, and his fellows. Truth-marked spirits see Baal, the tempter, and spirits similar to those which my begotten son banished to the swine, and those who infiltrated my fallen disciple. However, truth-marked spirits are also the only ones capable of seeing and feeling the true peace I hide from other spirits who are not yet released from themselves and my fallen angel. Truth-marked spirits enjoy all parts of my kingdom that can be enjoyed in the human form. They see, and feel, the multiplicity of heaven. They spiritually enjoy the comfort and assurance spoken of by their fallen ancestors, namely those who testified about the way, truth, and light ages ago.

You see my son, peace is a responsibility. Truth-laden spirits need this peace, because they see much more of the true, ephemeral world, through the mark of true discernment (no, discernment is not simply used for reading about your earthly issues and situations and making the most of them). Ultimately, this mark, my son, is the mark which enables a spirit to enter into the sweet experience which occurred when I completed my work creating the earth as you know it.

What you do not fully understand, is my discernment when creating your earth. I saw your potential as fully man and fully spirit man.

Needless to say, Spirit man will always have the most potential, because he can reach perfection. As your father, I had to provide you with choice, if you were to be as I and my legions of messengers. However, your original mother compromised her spirit, and, of course you know the rest of the story well. The mark of truth gives you a glimpse of the peace which cannot be fully seen and understood in your carnal state, and can only give glimpses of what is to come in your fully spiritual state. Is this not what my son Paul referred to as he expressed the inability of your eyes and ears to comprehend these mere truths? The flesh cannot see what the flesh cannot understand. This is why it's critical for you to thrive in your spirit.

What are you waiting for?

Another note Regarding Marks on the Soul

Son,

My spirits, though they may be lost in darkness, have a basic knowledge of darkness and light. A spirit can see - if it chooses - everything from another spirit. Therefore, let your light shine, not that others may see you! If you're transparent and authentic, they'll see you anyway! They must be able to see me! So hiding (e.g. Darkness) places a veil over your spirit, not theirs. A great spirit thrives in all affairs of life. A great spirit is not measured by worldly possessions. A great spirit shows fourth in ways that are unquantifiable. You may see glimpses of this in its eyes. In its ambulation. In its dealings with any and every other spirit. These spirits are few in number, and seek not to let their marks be known to man, but to let the origin of their marks be known and emulated. But a transparent and authentic spirits' mark cannot be emulated, nor duplicated. For that spirits marks are specific to his spirit. Mark not your spirit with shame, embarrassment, and disgrace. Mark it with the authenticity of your father.

Regarding Humility

Son,

In many worlds, I've seen those I've given great powers, fall from great lacks in humility. I cannot express to you the utter importance of humility. You have had many times in your life where you've lacked this significant mark. My command to you is this: cling to it. You cannot begin to fathom the things which are prepared for those who have had their souls marked with humility. Tell me, is it fathomable to see a man of true humility also possess a mark of self-destruction? No amount of education, no wealth, nor class can replace a mark of humility. Above all, be humble. This gives you infinite access to me.

Regarding Right Beginnings

Son

Do you recall what my first act was, in creating the world as you know it? No, it was not the actual creation of light. That was the one of first physical things. The first 'act' was my 'thought' of creating that light, followed by the verbal announcement of the matter.

Right beginnings are not important for the sake of having what you spirits deem a 'good' day. If you recall, I only use the word 'good' a few times in my written word to you. Right beginnings are critical for continuing to thrive from the marks on your spirit. During your slumber, your spirit is subdued, to the spiritual realm, where it is potentially exposed to the works of my fallen angel and the works of my army of loyal legions. To whom your spirit is exposed and committed depends greatly upon your lying down at sunset, and your arising at dawn.

Choose your actions during these times very wisely. Much is made among your spirits concerning productivity, proper attitudes, and the like. The truth is - right beginnings dictate one's start for spiritual progressing in that day's journey. Again, this is why your carnal existence is exposed to time. Father time enables you to make a better choice the next time around, in hopes that your spirit is made anew with each choice. Right beginnings are they key.

Regarding Purpose

Son,

Much, much time has been given to understanding your purpose in life. Why? How can a mere 'image' of me have a purpose somehow different and independent of me? It is as if your image has no origin, and by my count, you aren't a God. Your purpose is quite simple, yet difficult to practice (given selfish ambition): To glorify me above all else. Now, you may say that I'm prideful. You may say that I sit on the throne, with supremacy, awaiting for my name to be glorified among all of my people, simply to hear my name glorified. To that statement, I say, nothing could be further from the truth. Don't you see? Can't you hear? Glorifying my name heightens my name in your realm, while concomitantly, bringing you the completion of your joy. Your quest for purpose is simply your quest to be fulfilled through the life I've given you in my son. There will always be a lack in your purpose, a limp in your step, and a slur in your vocabulary, if you decide to pursue joy and happiness outside of your creator. If you learn nothing of your kind's history, learn this: The chief end of human experience is to be happy. And few there will be that find it.

Regarding Wellness

Son,

I think it's human of you to practice this notion of holistic wellness. As I've stated before, when marks haven't fully matured, patience is upset, and marks are improperly expressed. True wellness needs no identity through technology, through calorie counters, nor through rigorous writing. True wellness, as I see it, encompasses all that life is and has. It encompasses your fellow spirits. It includes your marks, your works, your Sabbaths, and your correct appropriation of time, and Mother Nature. Wellness should mean nothing more or less than this. So, so many of your fellow spirits are concerned with their ideas of productivity, dedication to causes, this 'Internet of things', saying no to 99 percent of things, and the like. This is not wellness. This is a mark's attempt at balance. Christine life is not about you finding balance. It's about you finding me. To such a thing, there is no balance. If there were, My son would have no purpose in your life.

Regarding Slavery

Son,

The slavery of your ancestors is something you've struggled with for a long time. What may be of a greater surprise to you, is that as a member of the group which I called into slavery, you're still dealing with the same 'spirit' of slavery that your ancestors dealt with back during that specific period in time. It is true, Tyrone, that your ancestors were sold. They were tortured. They were required to live and exist in conditions which are far less than humane. They were beat, as my son was beat. In many cases, they were treated as lapdogs. They were also valued as less than human. These things - you already know. But what you fail to see is the blessing that came through this endeavor suffered by your ancestors. When I cause - or allow - something of this nature to happen, blessings and grace abound even the more.

Abound in grace.

Regarding the Only Good Thing that You Found

Son,

Had it not been for my grace, your pea of a life would have been quite different. There were times in your early phase of life, where you made impatient choices that set the stage (good and bad) for the most important individual to come into your life - Your wife.

There is a reason that those who find a wife find the only good thing which you can find in nature. If you recall, the last instance when I instructed Moses to write 'good' in my word, was during the end of my work creating your earth. Therefore, she is, and always will be, significant.

It is true that Eve missed her mark. But as with the tempter, I never revoked Eve's powers. You ask, what were her powers? It is simple - she's the mother of all, but she is also the mother of choice. She had the first choice ever given to man. She failed in her choice, but she still reserved the power, and that power lives in every woman. In her spirit, deep within the inner chambers, is the power of life and death, through the power of choice. Though you may not have noticed it in your early dealings with your wife, her decisions with her power of choice is what attracted you to her. What you humans know as 'aura, or vibe, or personality, or ambience, or essence, or pheromones, are but smaller marks which allude to a woman's innate power of choice - more notably - what she wants to do, and has previously done with her choice. For this is all it can be. This is why I mentioned the grace which was upon you during your initial contact with this good thing. Had it not been for your humility, the humility which you were chastised for, you would not have, could not have, found this good thing. These good things are quite rare in Mother's nature, as the knitting of time has gotten the best of many of my good things.

Son, this is very important. It is absolutely critical that you protect, provide, and nurture this good thing. She is, and always has been the key to everything incomplete. In her is the church. This is why she is the only thing that can possibly come before the church, in your list of duties. But this only occurs if the two of you are correctly yoked, and previously established yourselves in me before marriage (which I may add that you did). This lesson, you must teach your son, and those men who you know and will come to know soon.

You may think of it this way. Contrary to your understanding of physiology, you are the lock. She is the key. At her turn is life and death. This, my son, is where you come in. This is why you are the protector. This is why your guidance and the role of man is of the utmost importance. As she singlehandedly has the ability to guide the key towards life or towards death. You, the husband, have the single most influence on her direction for that key. My son, may male spirits have forcefully turned and guided the key towards death without knowledge that they have done so. Hence, your generation's major issues and issues of generations past. What is marriage, but the combination of the correct lock, and the correct key?

Regarding Weakness

Son,

You are weak. Yes - Yes, you are weak. But you need not confuse your capacity for true weakness with my capacity to provide you with strength. All human weakness is similar. Weakness, from your imperfect perspective, is a lack of spiritual marks necessary to complete a task for the kingdom. In most instances where your fellow spirits describe their individual weakness, it has been significantly mislabeled. Rather, what you denote as weakness is simply a lack in the human condition - usually through the unbalanced senses which I gave you (of course, there are many things leading to this condition). Think about this, Tyrone: Why would you rely on your imperfect human condition to find the perfect human condition? Is this not the blind leading the blind? Do you not recall what my apostle Paul stated in his tour with the churches of east Asia? There is no true, self-sustaining, lasting strength built into your human capacity. True weakness is an abrasion, if you will, of the spirit. Only your father holds the remedy for that.

Regarding Idols

Son,

I need not repeat Mosaic Law to you. I cannot understand why you and your fellow spirits settle for less. Do you even know why I do not want other 'gods' before me? Do you know why I do not prefer to be jealous, while concomitantly, do not want you to be jealous? I am your God. I created you. The prince of your world created enmity between us. My Only begotten Son, replaced and removed that enmity. Whenever you glorify anything at higher heights than what you do for me, it becomes your God. Whenever you express jealousy within yourself, You make yourself 'god-like' in all the wrong ways. I am your God. I created you. Your chief end is to be one with your true father, your creator. Though you cannot see it in it's entirety, this is ultimately best for you. My chief concern is what's best for you. Why do you choose to be concerned with carnal matters? Yes, it is true that your bodies are wonders. I know this - I created them. But just as other natural elements in my creation, the sole purpose of them is to help you fix your eyes upward - upward towards the one who made everything. Yet, you choose to dwell on the ephemeral. Fix your eyes upon the hills.

Regarding Confusion

Son,

It is often thought by you and your fellow spirits, that confusion is a tool developed and utilized by My fallen son of the morning. Quite frankly, he has little work to do with the art of confusion. Beautiful is a spirit, when they trust me and follow my plan. It reminds me of my creation in the beginning.

Confusion however, is quite the contrary to my initial creation. I despise the art of confusion. I denote confusion as an art, because this is what it takes from you to create confusion, for it is the constant throttling and curation of a troubled mind. The bombardment of ideas, thoughts, opinions, false beliefs, perceptions, neglect, sadness, depression, anger, pride, anxiety, and many others, curated and spent into something not of this world. You spend time (which is not your own) meddling in the marks and spirits of others. You spend time trying to find yourself, when one of your chief responsibilities is to lose your self. My son, once you turn the corner to find the loss of self preservation, the scar of confusion passes away. As you concern yourself with your self and the affairs and sins of others, confusion strengthens its roots in you. Just as a tree firmly planted by waters, is difficult to uproot. Such are the roots of confusion. You, my son, have an uphill battle, which I sense that you are fearful of. I previously spoke to you regarding fear. Recall this, and carry on.

Regarding Images

Son,

Tell me: what is an image? Does an image manifest its own beauty? Or does an image depict beauty from the original? Why do you and your fellow spirits try so hard to make much of what you call 'brand' or 'personality'? Once more, you are not Gods. You sit and exist in the image of Me. Therefore, your chief aim should be to express my image; to express any other type of image and care for that image is idolatry. As you know, I despise idolatry, and it makes me jealous. Put another way, to serve your image is to serve a mere shadow of the truth, and not truth itself. If I am the way, the truth, and the light, how can you possibly be the way, the truth, or the light. No one comes to the truth by you. I created a more solid image of myself for that purpose. You should direct your imagination to Him.

Regarding Communication

Son,

You are no different from your fellow spirits. Your words are not written, spoken, or emailed in gold. When you move aside, and allow me to speak through you, your words are then lined with gold, emeralds, and rubies. Your fellow spirits detect this, and they are uplifted. Therefore, choose your communication methods more carefully. Be direct with your words. Be not subliminal with you communication. Be direct. See my letter to you on authenticity. As my disciples did generations ago, speak in truth and in spirit. Direct the spirit. Only then do your words sustain their meaning and impact other spirits. You and your fellow spirits often miss the mark concerning this matter. Remember, every action you commit either sustains life, or depletes life.

Regarding Glory

Son,

You must be careful not to diminish my glory from the presence of others. I have told my followers through the the eons of time, It is paramount that you not interfere with the salvation of others." Your human spirits lead you to believe that by 'wronging' another spirit, I suggest that saying something hurtful, taking their cookies, or whispering interjections about their names is the essence of wrongdoing. While each of these irrational behaviors can lead to your soul awaking in hell, there are not the chief of my concern. The chief of my concern is in your spirits misrepresenting me in such a way, that it leads other souls away from my glory. Needless to say, this is quite dangerous. When you mislead a soul, you not only interfere with their spiritual growth. You also interfere with all the souls across the ages to come, which benefit from the meeting had between the two of you. Therefore, to interfere with one soul is to interfere with many souls. Put another way, I instructed my son to send the demons away to die in the waters of the Euphrates. At that point in time, if you recall, the damned spirits we forced to identify themselves, at which time, to my beloved disciples, they mentioned that they were 'many'. Do you recall this science in the gospels given you?

Good or bad - souls never work alone. Why should you be any different?

Signed,

Regarding Balance

Son,

Why do you seek this balance I hear in your thoughts? The term balance, implies multiples. Multiple what? All things are one. You seek balance (or what you think to be such), because you fail to understand the concept of oneness. Delegating exact amounts of time towards vocation, rest, vacation, and the practice of health is not balance. I, your father, am the only one who balances anything. Your job is to allow me to balance your marks amongst and against each other. It is interesting, might I add, that you and your fellow spirits think of things in proportions. It is as if you have multiple lives, or multiple worlds existing within you.

You all live in the same world. The same earth. You are governed by the same nature which governs the rest of nature. The spirit which governs the trees governs you. The spirit which governs the ant governs you. You are fooled if you think you can govern the spirit which does these things. And you are fooled if you think achieving your balance is the way to do so.

Regarding Faith

Son,

Faith is the difference between someone who accesses the entire cortex of human understanding and him who uses only a part of it. Faith unlocks doors through natures which only those who possess it know exists. This is particularly why those who lack faith cannot and will not see the outcome of an unfathomable situation. This, my spirit, you have lacked for quite some time. Your works are null without the amendments of faith. Before faith, your human situations are null, voiceless, and without end. With faith, time matures the situation, and modulates the outcome. You think faith is a matter of goods? A strong belief? No. It gives substance to a particular event. It validates the invalidated. It provides to loins and fertilization to your future. It is the operating system for your works. This analogy, son, is something your technological generation should understand very, very well.

Regarding Emotion

Son,

Emotion never lies. If you would like a glimpse of the contents in your heart, meditate on the emotions of your life. Think about your car rides home, the moments just before you fall asleep, and your most personal thoughts during stressful situations. Are these different from what you portray at work? In your dealings with your wife? In your most personal moments? If so, you have a disconnect between who you are around fellow spirits, and who you truly are. Needless to say, this creates unimaginable discord in the soul.

Discord creates enmity. Enmity drove a steak between Myself and my only begotten son. Control your emotions. They are the fabric on which your natural being communicates with your supernatural self.
